

GROWING HOPS

The small town of Tett nang has a long tradition in growing hops. It was first documented in 1150, and since 1844 has become part of the ingrained culture in the area. Today, about 150 hop farms cultivate especially fine aroma hops on 1200 ha for global export.

The mild-humid climate of the Bodensee area is ideal for growing hops. Sufficient precipitation, mild temperatures and deep fertile soils of glacial origins offer ideal conditions for a balanced aroma and a delicate bitterness.

The following varieties are grown on our farm:

Aroma hops	Flavour Hops	Bittering hops
Tett nanger	Mandarina Bavaria	Herkules
Hallertauer Tradition		Taurus
Smaragd
Perle

In addition, we can also supply other varieties, which we procure from selected hop growers.

QUALITY

We produce our hops according to the requirements of the Integrated Production ("integrated and controlled"). Integrated production achieves hop products of particularly high quality. Subsequently, the Tett nang hops are marketed with the label "guaranteed quality from Baden Württemberg".

Tett nang hops are also recognised by the EU as a protected geographical indication (ggA). All parties are subject to quality control through an independent laboratory, and all hops are tested and rated for appearance and content.
